Foreword

This first publication on Za:r is part of a work that first started in 1991 in Azare and has now taken the shape of a lifelong enterprise. The general purpose of describing the Za:r language is to help put on the linguistic map a language spoken by about 150 000 speakers in the South of Bauchi State, Nigeria, and mainly in the ³ogoro Local Government Area. Although Chadic languages are beginning to be relatively well documented, little was known about the 30 or so «Saya» languages among which Za:r is the largest. Filling the gap with a description as exhaustive as possible will improve the understanding of the evolution of Chadic languages, help reconstruct the history of their speakers and place «Saya» languages in the typology of human languages. And last but not least, it is a well-known fact that the best way to give children access to education is to teach them through the medium of their mother tongue. This implies reading and writing in their own language, which in turn implies equipping the language with its own orthography and written grammar.

The present work is primarily aimed at Za:r speakers. All of them are bilingual, using Za:r locally and Hausa regionally. English is a prerequisite in the Nigerian system of education. Through the use of Za:r, English and Hausa in the dictionary and collection of texts, this book is meant to develop the readers' competence in the three languages and will help Za:r children become more familiar with English.

Finally, we have chosen to use the local (Bauchi) Hausa for the translation of the collection of texts, and document a non-standard variety of the language.

Acknowledgements

This linguistic research on Za:r and South-Bauchi West Chadic languages was first undertaken in 1991 under the auspices of IFRA in Ibadan, Nigeria, a research institute funded by the French Government. Then, LLACAN in Villejuif (UMR 8135 : CNRS, Inalco and the University of Paris 7) took over from 1992 up to now, financing regular field trips to continue the research. Finally, Dr Pécheux, director of IFRA, Ibadan (Nigeria) accepted to finance the publication of the book.

I would like to give my thanks to all those who have helped in one way or other, in the preparation of this work, starting with Dr. Rudolf Leger, from Frankfurt University, who first put me in contact with the Za:rs. The people who answered my questions at various times in those 15 years are too numerous to name all. I will just mention my main language assistants : Eski, Sunday and Gaba, Iliya, Ali and the late Haruna. Sunday was an extremely helpful and patient assistant at the beginning of the work at IFRA in Ibadan. Gaba took over in 1998 and became an essential part of the transcription and analysis process.

Then, I would like to extend my warmest thanks to Sunday's family who make me feel so much at home in their house where they so generously offer me their hospitality : Regina, Nakom and their children. Thanks to Sunday's parents, Dariya and Martha. Thanks to Sama'ila, Sarkin Tudun Wada and all the inhabitants of the village. And thanks finally to those whose friendship helps me enjoy so much my stay with them and makes me look forward to seeing them again and again : Sunday and Gaba, Tokari, Ali, Justin, etc. etc. etc.

Introduction

The Za:rs live in the South of Bauchi State (Nigeria), in the Tafawa Balewa and Bogoro local government areas. In the absence of a population census, a rough estimate would put their population at 150 000.

The names derived from root "Saya" (i.e. Bàsáyè: (pl. Sáyá:wá:) for the speakers, and Sáyáncì: for the language) are the names used by the Hausas. The speakers call themselves Za:r (pl. Zàrsà) meaning 'human being', and call their language vìk Za:r (lit. 'the mouth of men'). As they consider the term "Saya" derogatory, we use the term Za:r to refer both to the people and the language.

According to their oral tradition, the Za:rs originate from the lake Chad area. They started migrating South-West about four hundred years ago, because of the deterioration of farming conditions, or because of the multiplication of slave hunting that developed in Hausa and Borno kingdoms. After stopping in Duguri, they moved again South-East. Shimizu (78 : 10) states that :

"The homeland of the speakers of the southern Bauchi group of Chadic was around the three hills Tala, Kir and Buli hills, which are located just to the south of the Bauchi township."

They moved again further South to take refuge in the hills on the East side of the plateau area. A large part moved down to their present location in the plain at the foot of those hills when the area was pacified under British colonisation.

The Za:r "village" is a dispersed habitat where they live in the typical compound of the Nigerian savannah. The compound (dən, pl. dənsə) is made of mud huts (vìn, pl. vinsə) with grass roofs arranged in a circle and linked with walls that preserve the intimacy of the inhabitants. Formerly, the Za:rs only had a religious chief, but they have recently adopted the Hausa chieftaincy system.

According to [Newman 90], Za:r (which he calls Saya) belongs to the the West-B3 group of Chadic languages, with some doubts arising from the properties it shares with Angas.

Four dialects can be distinguished within Za:r, named after the main villages or towns where they are spoken: ³ogoro (formerly called the Lusa dialect), Gambar Lere, Marti and Kal. The Kal dialect is very close to what is generally called the Sigidi or Gu:s language (cf. Caron 2001), to the extent that Gu:s might be called a dialect of Za:r.

Most Za:r people of the younger generation are bilingual Hausa-Za:r. They are schooled through the medium of Hausa in primary school, before learning English. The Za:rs are Christians, and use a Hausa translation of the Bible. The older generation are not very confident in Hausa, whereas the younger educated elite, who often hold positions in the administration, police and education, switch between Za:r, Hausa and English.

Writing

We have chosen to use a spelling that preserves the phonetic value of allophones and tonal realization, and is thus closer to the actual pronunciation of the language than the phonological system.

Tones are marked with accents : H with an acute accent: á; L with a grave accent: à; M is left unmarked: a. In the alphabetical order, digraphs are not treated as a unit.

There is no escaping it. (lit. : We have to endure our body.)

GRAMMAR

THE SIMPLE SENTENCE

1. The sounds of Za:r¹

1.1 Segment inventory

1.1.1 Consonants

glottalic	voiceless obstruents			continuants
ʔ d'	p t	k	m n (ɲ)	l	ɣ
	f s	(tʃ) (ʃ)		r
	ʈ
	voiced obstruents			glides
	b d	g	j w	(h)
		(ʒ)
	v z	(ʒ) (ɣ)
	ʙ prenasalised obstruents
	^m b ⁿ d	^ɸ g
	ⁿ dz (ⁿ ʒ)

Phonemes within brackets are distinctive only in foreign words or in other very limited morpheme classes.

1.1.2 Vowels

short			long
i	u		i:	u:
e ə	o		e: ɔ:	o:
a			a:

1.2 Sound changes

1.2.1 Devoicing

Morpheme-final obstruents are voiceless at the phonemic level.

1.2.2 Neutralization of velar obstruents

Although k and g are distinctive in morpheme-initial position in lexical categories, this distinction is neutralized in other environments: velar obstruents followed by a voiced segment are voiceless after a voiceless segment or pause boundary and voiced after a voiced segment. Voiced velars are also continuant unless preceded by a nasal.

This accounts for the variation in the Verbal Noun suffix -kəni:

¹This chapter concerning phonology is based on Schneeberg 74.

Grammar

káp-káni	cím-ngóni	fú:-ghóni
getting	calling	saying

1.2.3 Palatalization

Velar consonants are palatalized before a front vowel or glide. Except for liquids and implosives, alveolar consonants with abrupt offset are palatalised before a palatal glide. Except for laterals, alveolar consonants without abrupt offset are palatalized before any non-consonantal palatal.

1.2.4 Glottalisation

Voiced labial and alveolar stops are implosive if preceded by a vowel or liquid, or in initial position in a grammatical formative. When followed by a vowel, morpheme-final labial and alveolar stops are phonetically voiced and implosive.

This appears, for example, when the -ən plural morpheme is suffixed to verbs.

	s.	p.
harvest	kas	kas-ən
shave	wusl	wusl-ən take	kap	kaβ-ən
drive away	kat	kaɸ-ən

1.3 Tone system

Za:r has a three tier phonetic tone system : H (marked with an acute accent: á), M (unmarked: a), L (marked with a grave accent: à).

Initial non-implosive voiced obstruents have a depressing effect on tones in a certain number of grammatical environments. We will take Verbal Nouns (VN) as an example. The tones associated with the -káni VN suffix is L for verbs beginning with a non-implosive voiced obstruents (+V) and (M)HHM for verbs with any other consonant (-V).

call	cim	címngóni	(< cim-káni)
choose	bwa:	bwà:ghóni	(< bwa:-káni)

L tone tends to spread over M clitics (tonal sandhi). This can be seen in direct pronominal objects, e.g. à: vərghà (<vər=kə), he has (3s.PRF) given you ; vs á vərghà (<vər=kə), he (3s.AOR) gave you.

2. Predication

Za:r uses verbal and non-verbal clauses. In verbal clauses, the syntactic nexus is a verb. The verb, as a lexical category, is defined by its inability to assume any other function than that of nexus of a sentence. The verb is inflected for Aspect, Tense and Mood (TAM). In Za:r, this inflection is combined with a personal mark of agreement with the subject.

Grammar

NP	TAM	Verb	NP
(Subject)			(Object)
Şanyâ:s	tá	dyǎ:	va:t
NEG	3P.AOR	can	forge

The Nganyas can forge.

In a non-verbal clauses, the syntactic nexus is a Predicative Particle (PPrt). PPrt are not marked for Aspect, Tense and Mood.

NP	PPrt	NP
Gín	nə	ni:?
this	COP	what

What is this?

NP	PPrt
Ma:ndó gət	kən
war-of woman	ID

It is a fight about women.

Nouns can appear both in the predicating position (i.e. in the Continuous), or as the argument of a verb, a predicative particle, a preposition, etc.

3. Non-verbal clauses

3.1 Equative clauses: nə

The structure is $\langle NP_1 nə NP_2 \rangle = \langle NP_1 be NP_2 \rangle$. This structure is used to identify two terms of an equation.

Bitúrûs nə pástowòpm.
Petrus is our pastor.

Yes/No-questions are marked by the -a: morpheme at the end of the sentence :

Bitúrûs nə pástowà:sə̀hà: ?
Is Petrus their pastor ?

WH-questions can be asked about the NP_2 , with ní: ('what') for [-human] and ní: ('who') for [+human] NP_2 :

Gín nə ní:/nu: ?
Who/what is this ?

Grammar

3.3 Identifying clauses

3.3.1 kən, 'it is'

Structure : <NP kən>, <it is NP>. This particle is used to name and assert the existence of something.

- Tá átá yin gá dàlí:li ná ghoi?
- Eò: tó: ma.ndá gət kən, ma.ndá gət.
- Well, why did they use to fight?
- Well, it was a fight about women, a fight about women.

It is used mainly in focus constructions:

Sanyâ:s kən tó dyă: va:t.
It's the Nganyas who can forge.

It can be combined with the equative nə:

Tá yâ:n nə sáŋwa:rês kən yá: mäs dzàŋ gí: fâ:?
Well, what if it is the religious chief who has died?

3.3.2 kəní/kənín/kəndí, 'here is'

For extra emphasis, kən can be suffixed with the morphemes -í, -ín (<-í-ń>) and -dí. Structure : <NP kəní/kəndí/kənín> = <'here is' NP>

The three forms, very close semantically, are frequently used to identify the focus in focus construction. The four variants (kən, kəní, kənín and kəndí) are all translated by Hausa 'kenan'.

- In the form kəní, -í is an operator that licences the operand in the referential situation. It validates its existence within the referential domain of the speech act.

Yá: ghəní!
Here she is!

The neutralization of the initial velar obstruent applies :

Ađlbása ghəní ; kătn ngəní ; cit kəní.
here are onions ; here are egg plants ; here is hungry rice.

- kənín is the result of the suffixation of the proximal deictic -ń to the kəní form

Dèk ŋgəshín dan myà:yí zaktí: yâ:n yi ghənín, yâ:n yi ghənín !
The reason why we are celebrating it, this is it, this is it!

Grammar

- kəndí is the distal counterpart of kənín.

Yâ:n dè:wòs bét kəndí tu lǎpm za:ro.
That's the reason why it is called Lepm Za:r.

Yes/No questions are formed with the -a: morpheme at the end of the sentence:

Pástowà: ghəndyâ:?
Is that your pastor ?

4. The Verb - Verb classes

Za:r has two verb classes: Middle (M) and H (H), which can be observed in the Perfective. The M class includes both 1- and 2-syllable verbs. A variant appears with some TAM (sp. the plural Imperfective) and depends on the [+/-V] nature of the initial consonant of the verb: [+V] = nonimplosive voiced obstruent. For short, we call the Perfective form "lexical", and the other one "modified".

	Lexical (PRF)	Modified (IPRF P.)
H	sú: (H)	sǔ: (R)	love
M1 [+V]	bwa: (M)	bwà: (L)	choose
M2 [+V]	da:mbár (MH)	dà:mbár (LH)	disturb
M1 [-V]	ta:r (M)	tâ:r (F)	clear
M2 [-V]	tu:rá (MH)	tû:rá (FH)	push

5. The defective verbs yi, 'be' and yír, 'have'

'Be' in Za:r is expressed by the word yi, which can be analysed as a defective verb. This verb is invariable and only conjugated in the Aorist with the meaning 'be'⁴. The 3s (tə) and 3p (tə) TAMS and the verb yi are assimilated : tə + yi > ci ; tə + yi > cì. They are dropped when the subject is [- animate], leaving the bare yi verb.

This type of equative sentences has various uses :

- Attributive construction of numerals : <NP (Aor) yi Numeral>

Səbrêš yi nàmbóŋ.
There is only one knife (lit : the knife is one)

Múréš ci nàmbóŋ
There is only one man (lit : the man is one)

⁴ For its use as an auxiliary, cf. the Continuous TAM, § 7.1.

Grammar

When the [-animate] subject is contextual, the Aorist TAM is dropped:

Yi nàmbóŋ.
There is one

- Location : <NP (Aor) yi PP>

Sò:sôs yi gìb kǒt-cópkhân.
The loofah is inside the washing bowl.

Múrês ci kên Dànda.
The man is in front of Denda.

Kadaŋshês cì kár vì:n.
The dogs are behind the house.

Certain intrinsically locative NP₂ are used with a zero preposition.

Yi/ci vì:n.
It/he is in the room

Gèri ci dí:zlàŋ.
The hens are in the compound.

The question-word is (té:)dô:

1s	mi té:dô:?	mí dô:?	where am I ?
2s	ki té:dô:?	kí dô:?	where are you (s.) ?
3s	ci té:dô:?	cí dô:?	where is he ?
1p	mì té:dô:?	mì dô:?	where are we ?
2p	kì té:dô:?	kì dô:?	where are you (pl.) ?
3p	cì té:dô:?	cì dô:?	where are they ?

- Possession : the locative structure with a [+human] NP₁ and the preposition tá ‘with’, produces a possessive meaning :

Sónde ci tá mà:shîn.
Sunday has a motorcycle.

Murês ci tá kadaŋshíwôs gùda: mâ:y.
The man had three dogs

The causative derivation⁵ applied to yi produces the verb yír, ‘have’, conjugated in the Aorist:

⁵ Cf. § 6.2 on the causative derivation.

Mə yír wurbǎŋ.

I dont have any money.

With a nominal subject, the Aorist TAM is dropped :

Sónde yír mà:shûn.

Sunday has a motorcycle.

- Continuous aspect. The Continuous is a locative construction using the verb yi, ‘be’ and the ká preposition (the /k/ changes to [gh] in intervocalic position) with a Verbal Noun. The subject pronouns belong to the paradigm of locative subject pronouns : Pro + yi + ká + Verbal Noun⁶.

- Qualification : <NP ((Aor) yi) nə NP/AP>

Cì nə mə:rǎŋsə.

They are robbers.

Gà:lès (ci) nə jì.

The cow is black.

Vì:n yi nə mùr.

The room is hot.

6. The Verb - Derivation

6.1 Plural Verbs

Plural verbs, or « pluractionals » mark agreement with a plural subject in case of intransitive verbs, and repeated or distributed action in case of transitive verbs. Two forms of verb plurals exist in Za:r :

- an internal plural through lengthening of the radical vowel, or replacement of this vowel by the vowel /a:/, resulting in a H verb : jom / jwá:m : ‘pile up, gather’ (with a plural object) ; kír / kír:, ‘run’ (with a plural subject) ; nyol > nywá:l, ‘leave, go’ (with a plural subject) ; zlop / zlwá:p, ‘sting’ ; mal / má:l, ‘get lost’ ; nat / ná:t, ‘tie up’ ; dat / dá:t, ‘nail’ ; cim / cí:m, ‘call’ ; kəp / ká:p, ‘weave, plant’ ; məs / má:s, ‘die’ ; vyer / vyá:r, ‘insult’

⁶ Cf. § 7.1 for the full paradigm of the Continuous aspect.

Grammar

- an external plural through suffixation of – ən. We saw ná:t (pl. < nat, ‘tie up’), which alternates with the form nadʒən (pl. : ‘tie up several times, or several things, or several people tying up sth.’). We have bat / badʒən : ‘move along’ ; sə: / sə:n : ‘breathe’ ; slə / slən, ‘go’ ; wum / wumən : ‘feel’.

6.2 The causative -r

The causative derivation is used in Za:r to increase the valency of a verb. When translated into English by Za:r speakers, the newly added argument of the verb is introduced by the preposition ‘with’. The distinctive mark of causative verbs is a final /r/, most of the times /-ar/. All monosyllabic causatives are H verbs. The derivative suffix takes different forms :

The -r suffix is added to monosyllabic CV and CVV verbs :

shi:	get down	shí:r	get down with
nda	let in	ndár	get in with
ta	go up	tár	go up with
su	turn	súr	return
slə	go	slá:r	drive

The -ar suffix is added to CVC and CVVC monosyllabic verbs.

dí:p	buy	dí:bár	sell
mal	get lost	malár	spoil, scatter
ɲgʊp	kneel	ɲgubár	kneel with
nyol	go out	nyolár	go out with
pa:s	pour	pa:sár	pour away
bə:l	divide, share	bə:lár	distribute
bət	see sb off ; help up	bətár	shift, move
bʊp	wait	bubár	wait for sb.

The -ar suffix is also used with dissyllabic verbs :

la:tsə	pass by	la:tsár	pass with
---------------	---------	----------------	-----------

The -lar suffix is added to CV monosyllabic verbs.

mbwa:	shoot	mbwa:lár	shoot
nda	let in	ndalár	get in with
ta	go up	talár	go up with
tu	arrive	tulár	arrive with
su	turn	sulár	return
shi:	get down	shilár	get down with

The -lar suffix is also used with CVr and CVVr verbs, giving a CVlár causative.

zlə:r	stop, stand (intr.)	zləlár, zləllár	stop (tr.)
kír	run	kilár	run with

Grammar

zlar split, cross zlar split, help across

Same thing with the suffix -dár used with one verb only :

shin send shindár send

As can be see above, some CV monosyllabic verbs are associated with two different derivative suffixes, producing two variants :

nda	let in	ndár, ndalár	get in with
ta	go up	tár, talár	go up with
su	turn	súr, sulár	return
shi:	get down	shí:r, shilár	get down with

6.3 The inchoative -ni

This rare extension is used to convey an inchoative meaning of ‘start doing something’, or ‘do something instead of something else’ :

Zlè:rón!	Zlè:rónní!
Keep on standing!	Stand up!

Aorist. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + Ø ». It has a narrative functional value. The verbs appear with a high tone on their first syllable in the 1st and 2nd persons of the singular. In the 3rd person singular and in the plural, they appear in the modified form.

Perfective. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + á: ». The form of the verb is the lexical form.

Imperfective. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + yá: ». The verb appears in the lexical form in the singular, and in the modified form in the plural.

Grammar

Punctiliar. The meaning is both punctiliar and iterative. The closest equivalent is the periphrastic Hausa ‘yi ta’. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + yi: ». The verb appears in the lexical form.

Concomitant. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + yá: + na: ». The verb keeps the lexical form.

Continuous. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + yi + ká + VN ». yi + ká is realised [yighá]. In the monosyllabic variant, the opposition singular vs plural is marked by a tone contrast between a rising M-H tone in the singular and a rising L-H in the plural. It is the only place in the language where this contrast is observed. However, it seems to be unstable and tends to be replaced among younger speakers by a contrast between M in the singular and Rising in the plural.

Immediate past. The Immediate Past refers to events which occurred earlier the same day. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + yi ». The first syllable of the verb receives a low tone.

Recent Past. The Recent Past refers to events which occurred on the previous day. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + ná: ». The verb keeps the lexical form.

Remote Past. The Remote Past refers to events which occurred more than two days ago. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + ta ». The verb keeps the lexical form.

Future. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + a ». The verb appears in the lexical form in the singular, and the modified form in the plural.

Subjunctive. The inflection follows the pattern « Pro + low tone ». In the plural, a low tone is added to the 1st syllable of the verb.

Conditional. The inflection follows the pattern « pronoun + yá: ». In the 1st and 2nd persons singular, the verb takes a high tone on the 1st syllable. In the other persons, the verb appears in the modified form. The only difference with IPRF is in 3s.

Counterfactual. The inflection follows the pattern « pronoun + yí ». The verb appears in the modified form. The Counterfactual is introduced by yǎ:n, ‘if’ and used in contexts that would be translated in Hausa by a dà: ... dà: construction.

Imperfective Punctiliar. The inflection has the structure: « Pro + yǎ: + yi ».

Imperfective Continuous. The structure of the inflection is « Pro + yǎ: + yi + ká ». yi + ká is realised [yíghá]. The verb appears in the form of a Verbal Noun.

Grammar

Punctiliar Continuous. The structure of the inflection is « Pro + yi: + yi + ká ». yi + ká is realised [yíghá]. The verb appears in the form of a Verbal Noun. This combination is not common and Za:r speakers usually prefer to use the Imperfect Continuous instead.

8. The Noun – Gender and number

Za:r does not possess grammatical gender or nominal classes and few nouns form a plural (less than 60 items in the lexicon). Regular plurals are formed with the suffix -(t)sə́/-shí associated to L, MH and MHM tone patterns.

head	gàm	gàm(t)sə́	-sə; -tsə	L⁷
hen	gèri	gershí	-shi	MH dog	kádi	kadaɲshí	-shi	MH mouse	mbâp	mbaptsə́	-tsə	MH chief	gùɲ	guɲsə́	-sə	MH vulture	kwádâk	kwadaksə́	-sə	MH
viper	jìgu.rí	jigu.rínsə	-sə	MHM

A good number of family nouns form their plural with a -(k)tə suffix and MH tones:

in-law	jít	jidəghtë́
cousin	kúndà:	kundaghtë́
mother	na:	naghtë́
sister	wa:tsə́	watsaghtë́
brother	yêś	yestə́

The irregularities are proportionally quite numerous:

woman	gət	gudí
child	ɲá:	mə:ri
arrow	pís	piská
guest	səm	səmdə́
sheep	təm	timsá

Other irregularities concern words borrowed with their original plural from Hausa :

⁷ The L tone is not associated to the presence of an initial voiced consonant as can be seen from guɲsə́, plural of gùɲ, 'chief'.

9. The Noun – Determination

4 suffixes establish 4 levels of determination :

- -i : definite
- -es : anaphoric
- -ɛ̀n : proximal deictic
- -í: : distal deictic

9.1 Definite

The definite form of the Za:r noun is suffixed with -i. Its meaning is that of a low level of determination, of a form of individuation introducing a referential value. It predicts the existence of one instance of a notion. Its tone copies the last tone of the lexical form of the noun.

chief	gùŋ	gùnyì
spear	gwa:r	gwa:ri
night	kávit	kávidì
work	la:	la:y

Final lexical contour tones spread over the last two syllables of the suffixed noun and become MH (<R) or HM (<F).

fig-tree	gwǎ:m	gwa:mí
termite	slí:tn	slí:ti
sheep	tí:m	tí:mi

There are cases of resyllabification:

porcupine	gùsùm	gùsmì
-----------	--------------	--------------

9.2 Indefinite

wón / gwón is a post-nominal determiner introducing an indeterminate qualitative specification. It is translated by 'a, some, (not) any, (an)other' (cf. Hausa wani/wata/wasu).

mur wón, ɣgátn wón, lɛ̀p wón someone, something, somewhere

Nə ɣantsá wón dan cǎ: dzǎk slô:skáy
It's a tree which they sacrificed animals on (it).

Mə fí la: tǎ Bǎtú:re gón cǎ: cím tǎ tu Pótân.
I worked with a European called « Potan ».

Grammar

Bà: má: sló kú:p ká lǎp wón hǎy.
I didn't go to study anywhere.

9.3 Previous Reference Marker

The Previous Reference Marker (PRM) is a -es/-os suffix with a F tone. The -es form is suffixed to final consonants and replaces nasals in final consonant clusters:

spear	gwa:r	gwa:rês
fig-tree	gwǎ:m	gwa:mês
sheep	tâ:m	tâ:mês
termite	slî:tn	slî:tês
night	kávit	kávidês

The -os form replaces final vowels in polysyllabic nouns:

millet	màrwa	màrwôs
orange	lè:mu	lè:môs

A preceding L tone prevails over the F tone of the PRM:

chief	gùŋ	gùnyès
woman	gàt	gàdês
abandoned house	dàddàn	dàddànès

The -s form is suffixed to a monosyllabic vowel-final noun. If this noun bears a M tone, it becomes Rising:

work	la:	lǎ:s
------	------------	-------------

There are cases of resyllabification :

porcupine	gùsùm	gùsmès
-----------	--------------	---------------

9.4 Deitics

Za:r has two degrees of deictics : proximal -án, 'this' and distal -í: 'that'.

They are suffixed either to the noun, producing the light deictic, or to the pronominal form of the Genitive Link *kə/gə*⁸, producing the heavy deictic determiners (proximal gán and distal gwí.) used with the definite form of the noun:

spear	gwa:r	gwa:ri gán/gí:	gwa:rán	gwa:rí:
fig-tree	gwǎ:m	gwa:mí gán/gí:	gwa:mán	gwa:mí:
sheep	tâ:m	tâ:mi gán/gí:	tâ:mán	tâ:mí: termite	slî:tn	slî:ti gán/gí:	slî:tán	slî:tí:
night	kávit	kávidi gán/gí:	kávidán	kávidí:

⁸ Cf § 9.6 on the pronominal form of the Genitive Link, and 11.1.3 on heavy possessive pronouns.

nàmbóŋ wá:səŋ ; mbásləŋ wà:səŋ
one of them ; two of them

Mbásləŋ tǎ lǎ:p shí áy.
Two followed them, yes.

9.6 Qualification

The genitive link (GL) is an essential component of the expression of noun qualification in Za:r. It is used to modify a noun with an NP, an AP or ordinal numerals. The structure is NP GL NP/AP/Num and the

Grammar

Genitive link (GL) is kə. It has high tone after nouns with final high tone or with all mid tones, low tone elsewhere. The GL can be omitted when immediately preceded by the possessed noun-phrase. The tone of the GL is then shifted to the preceding morpheme. If the latter consists of a single level toned monosyllable, the shifted tone is preceded by the original tone. Elsewhere, the shifted tone replaces the last tone of the morpheme. The effect of this floating tone is visible only with nouns possessing uniform M tone : mə:ri, 'children' > mə:ri kadayshês, 'the puppies' ; kot, 'calabash' > kõt nó:no, 'milk calabash'.

9.6.1 Genitive phrases

The GL is used to modify a noun with an NP: ma:ndó ghá dòn, 'civil war, lit. war of house' ; səjwa:ri ghá mumtsó, 'chief of masquerades'.

The GL is also a means of producing compound words: mur ghá dònès, 'head of the family, lit. man of the house'; mur ghá zùkn, 'sorcerer, lit. man of medicine'.

The pronominal nature of the GL kə appears in the following example where it stands for the qualified noun, with the meaning 'that of, 'the... one'. In its pronominal form, the GL is accentuated and the initial /k/ remains unchanged.

Kó: dzàŋ gyó: yá: slê wò slán ca: kə gùŋ lə:rđi, har....
Every day he would go and pick the king's [groundnuts] and take them home until [one day]..

9.6.2 Adjectival phrases

The GL is used to modify a noun with an Adjectival Phrase: lât kə mu:ri, 'new leather'.⁹

9.6.3 Ordinal numerals

Ordinal numbers are made with a cardinal number in the definite form following the pronominal Genitive Link : kə nàmbónyi, 'the first one' ; kə mbáslmi, 'the second one', etc.

"First" in a temporal meaning, uses the word kéni, 'front', or fá:ri, 'beginning' borrowed from Hausa.

Kə fá:ri ghè tághân wà:səŋ ...
The first to appear...

⁹ Cf. § 10 on adjectives.

Grammar

Guydó ghó ká kéní...
The first chieftaincy...

9.6.4 Relative constructions

The relative marker is dan. The structure of the relative clause modifier is : <Noun^[+def] dan ...>. The final /n/ assimilates to a following velar (dan > daj) or bilabial (dan > dám), yielding the three variants : dan /daj/dám.

The NP in the relative clause that is coreferential to the relativized NP is deleted. This applies to subject and direct object NPs.

Nyé:s kənín daj cá: yi kən zhà.
 Here is the girl who carries the water.

Zhèy ghənín dan nyé:s (á) lǎ:r túrwôs mándí.
 Here is the water that the girl to to her husband.

However, if the deleted NP is [+human], it is replaced by a resumptive pronoun.

Murí: dām mā yél tǎ...
 The man that I saw...

If the deleted NP is a Locative, it is replaced by the resumptive locative pronoun káy:

Dànès kənín dan nyé:s lǎ:r zhàgháy.
 Here is the house that the girl brought water to.

10. Adjectives

Morphologically, adjectives are a "nouny" category. They cannot be combined to a negative marker nor to a comparative morpheme. They have a plural and a definite form. When these two affixes are combined, four forms can be obtained. Let's take the adjective 'evil' as an example:

	lexical	definite
singular	kúskə	kú:shi
plural	kusúŋsə	kusúŋshi

Adjectives with a plural form :

	singular	plural
big	dəllək, dəllí	dəlləŋsə, dəlləŋshi
old	gə:rí	gə:rəŋsə, gə:rəŋshi
clipped	ndúri	ndurúŋsə, ndurúŋshi

Grammar

big	vàrì	vàràŋsə, vərəŋshi
female	cár	caráŋsə
young, small	ŋa:, ŋa:nyí	mə:ri, mə:rí-mə:rí
old	ndótsə, ndwá:tsə	ndwatsáŋsə, ndwatsáŋshi
bad	kúskə	kusúŋsə, kusúŋshi

Syntactically : adjectives appear as modifiers in a Noun Phrase and cannot be head of such a Noun Phrase (except superficially when the head noun is understood). They draw their number feature by agreement with the noun they modify, whereas nouns get theirs from their referential function.

When they operate as noun modifiers, adjectives can be simply juxtaposed on the left of the noun : <Adj N> or appear on the right with the genitive link : <N kə Adj>. The GL structure is not used with plural adjectives.

dəllə shirəŋ	ndurúŋsə ¹⁰ shakndí	lât ké mu:ri
a big stick	short(-legged) pots	a new skin

The GL can be omitted, but it leaves behind a floating tone that raises the last tone of an all-M toned noun to Rising: ŋa:, 'child'; ŋa: ké fyá:li = ŋá: fyá:li, 'a lucky child' (lit. « child of white »).

The modified noun can be omitted leaving the GL as head of the NP.

Dzàŋ gí: ké vərə̀ yá: shíshí:dí, àllú:ra ma: wum dǎn sáy...
 The day that a big [illness] arrives, the injection will not work, then...

When they operate as predicates, adjectives use the non-verbal copula nə, and optionally the verb yi, 'be' :

	modifier	predicate
singular	kúskə zɑ:r an evil man	D. nə kú:shi D. is evil
plural	kusúŋsə zàrsə evil people	zàrsə cì nə kusúŋshi people are evil

10.1 Non-derived adjectives

Non-derived, "pure" adjectives in Zɑ:r don't exceed 25 in number. Semantically, "pure" adjectives can be subcategorized into :

¹⁰ ndúri (pl. ndurúŋsə), 'shortened, abnormally short'.

Grammar

Colour (4) : These four adjectives have a reduplicated form with a diminutive meaning, which can be translated into English by a « -ish » suffix.

	singular	plural	derived form
black	jì:	jìysə	jì:-jì:
white	fyá:li	fyaláysə	fyá:li- fyá:li
red	zhèlì	zhèlàysə	zhèlì-zhèlì
variegated	mbóci	mbóci	mbóci- mbóci

Size, shape (9): dàdà:shì / dàdà:s, ‘big’ ; dəllí / dəllək, ‘tall’ ; vàrì, ‘big, important’ ; ndúri , ‘abnormally short, broken, shortened’ ; ngótse / ngójìki, ‘large (animal)’ ; vətì, ‘void’ ; dàlcì, ‘shallow’ ; fóptây, ‘thin’ ; wóghshi, ‘rough’ ;

Moral/human qualities (3) : kúskə, ‘evil’ ; mbok, ‘catankerous’ ; múli, ‘naked’ ;

Others (9): mbóri, ‘ill-cooked (flour)’ ; gwà:mì, ‘ill-cooked (meat), premature’ ; la:mi, ‘insipid’ ; má:ki, ‘dirty’ ; na:-tsà:day, ‘expensive’ ; mbuní, ‘good’ ; mu:ri, ‘new’ ; ndwátsə, ‘old’ ; njú:li, ‘pure’.

10.2 Compound adjectives of colour

These adjectives are compounds formed with the word ‘water’ followed by a term characteristic of a certain colour.

	singular	literal meaning
blue	zhàk-gàhú:ra	water-of- ?
dark brown	zhàk-nǎlle	water-of-hennae
yellow	zhàk-ra:s	water-of-locust-bean tree
green	zhàk-pá:tsə	water-of-leaf

10.3 Verbal Adjectives

Adjectives can be derived from quality verbs through a -ni / -shi suffix.¹¹ They only function as noun modifiers, in a genitive construction: nyalák, ‘be smooth’ > nyalághni > pǔ:s nyalághni, ‘a smooth stone’?

Some Verbal Adjectives have a plural form: ngomdá, ‘be crooked’ > ngómđi (pl. ngomdáynshi), ‘crooked’.

10.4 Verbal Nouns

A Verbal Noun can be used as a noun determiner, filling the same function as an adjective. It uses the genitive construction: saghát, ‘be ¹¹ Cf § 15.2.

Grammar

clever’ > saghátkân, ‘cleverness’ : zǎ:r saghátkân, ‘a clever man’ (lit. ‘a man of cleverness’).

See the following example, with the modified noun understood and the GL as head of the NP:

[Context: a woman is winnowing water, trying to separate cold from hot water]

é mbî: zhèy á shiní á pàránì cá: ñal tà wár ká và:ghànishí tà wár ká ñjirê:shí tà tú ká và:ghànès, tà cóp tǎgháyo.
She took water and poured it on her plate to separate the hot one from the cold one, to remove the hot one and take a shower with it.

10.5 Comparison

Comparison is not marked on the adjective, but is expressed through a syntactic construction using the verb mop, ‘exceed’, with the term of comparison (the quality) appearing as a (Verbal) Noun : <X mop Y Z_[quality]> = <X exceeds Y in Z_[quality]>.

Di:la mǒp Zǎ:ki saghátkànì ò:
Jackal is wiser than Lion (lit. Jackal exceeds Lion in wisdom).

[Context: a very old man is talking about his youth]

Mǎ wul tu ðan màtàyiǵhá sá:fēs wàllây á mǒp gín ndarǵhâ ñ.
I say that formerly, when we were pagans, it was better than now. (lit. it exceeds this in goodness)

11. Pronouns

11.1.1 Independent pronouns

	Singular	Plural
1	myá:ni	myà:ní
2	kyá:ni	kyà:ní
3	yá:ni	yà:shí

11.1.2 Object pronouns

Segmental form

	Singular	Plural
1	-əm	-mi
2	-kə	-ki
3	-tə	-shi

Grammar

Tones

DO pronouns have mid tone in the singular and high tone in the plural.

yel , 'see'
à: yel = əm	yeləm
à: yel = kə	yelghə
à: yel = tə	yeltə
à: yel = mí	yelmí
à: yel = kí	yelkí
à: yel = shí	yelshí

A final L tone spreads from the verb to the M tone of the DO.

vər , 'give'
á vər = əm	vərəm
á vər = kə	vərghə
á vər = tə	vərtə
á vər = mí	vərmí
á vər = kí	vərkí
á vər = shí	vərshí

If this L tone is part of a Falling tone, it shifts to the M tone of the DO. See the following example where the verb conjugated in the Aorist, bears a H or M depending on the person and number index of the TAM:

tu , 'meet'
mə tú həŋ	mə títə	(< tí = tə)
I did not find (it)	I found him
tɔ́ tú həŋ	tɔ́ títə	(< tú = tə)
He did not find (it)	He found him

11.1.3 Genitive Pronouns

Genitive pronouns have two forms: one suffixed to the genitive link kə/gə, and one suffixed to the possessed noun.

Forms with kə/gə-

This heavy form has a uniform L tone, and can be used as head of NP. This is why we write it as a separate word.

	singular	plural
1	gətɪn	gwòpm
2	gwà:	gwà:n
3	gwòs	gwà:səŋ

Grammar

Forms without kə/gə-

This light form is suffixed to the qualified noun. The suppression of the gə- leaves behind a floating H tone¹².

	singular	plural
1	-atn	-wapm
2	-wa:	-wa:n
3	-was	-wa:sən

For the 1s pronoun, the tone the genitive is L after a L tone :

bəndə , 'pot'	nábàm , 'butter'
bəndətn	nábàmàtn

R elsewhere :

túr , 'husband'	gèri , 'fowl'
túràtn	gèràtn

Some exceptions come from resyllabification :

ɣgətɲ , 'thing'	səbər , 'knife'	ra: , 'heart'
ɣgətɲtn	səbràtn	ra:tn

Only the first tone of contour tones is kept :

kâ:m , 'ear'	dwǎ:m , 'metal'
kâ:mâdn	dwa:mâdn

For the other persons, the tone of the suffix is L after a L tone:

	bəndə , 'pot'	dən , 'compound'
2s	bəndəwà:	dənwà:
3p	bəndəwà:səɣ	dənwà:səɣ

and after falling melodies (H-L, H-M and Falling):

	nábàm , 'butter'	kádí , 'dog'	lút = 'rope'
2s	nábàmwà:	kádíwà:	lútwà:
3p	nábàmwà:səɣ	kádíwà:səɣ	lútwà:səɣ

It is Falling after a H tone

	túr , 'husband'
2s	túrwà:
3p	túrwà:səɣ

and after rising melodies (L-M, M-H and Rising)

¹² Cf. § 9.6 on GL.

Grammar

	bùtí , ‘okra’	karí , ‘monkey sp.’	dwǎ:m , ‘money’
2s	bùtíwâ:	karíwâ:	dwǎ:mwâ:
3p	bùtíwâ:səŋ	karíwâ:səŋ	dwǎ:mwâ:səŋ

As final M tones are raised by the floating H tone, the rule applies to the resulting rising melody:

	ga:m , ‘head’	ra: , ‘heart’
2s	gǎ:mwâ:	rǎ:wâ:
3p	gǎ:mwâ:səŋ	rǎ:wâ:səŋ

Exceptions

Some possessives (inherent possessions) have a special form :

da: , ‘father’	na: , ‘mother’	yés , ‘brother’	wa:tsə , ‘sister’
dà:gətn	ná:gətn	yésâtn	wa:tsatn
dà:gwà:	ná:gwà:	yéswà:	wa:tsawa:
dà:gwòs	ná:gwòs	yéswòs	wa:tsawos
			wa:tsashi
dà:gwòpm	ná:gwòpm	yéswòpm	wa:tsawopm
dà:wà:n	nawa:n	yéswà:n	wa:tsawa:n
dà:wà:səŋ	nawa:səŋ	yéswà:səŋ	wa:tsawa:səŋ

kâ:m , ‘friend’	kǎn , ‘uncle’	dən , ‘house’	vì: , ‘mouth’
kamsatn	kanâtn	dâ:m dən/vì:
kamsa:	kaná:	dâ:ghə dən/vì:
kamsashi	kánwòs	dâ:tə dən/vì:
	kanáshi
kamsawopm	kánwòpm	dâ:mí dən/vì:
kamsawa:n	kánwâ:n	dâ:kí dən/vì:
kamsawa:səŋ	kánwâ:səŋ	dâ:shí dən/vì:

11.1.4 Reflexive pronouns

	Singular	Plural
1	gamatn	gamawopm
2	gama:	gamawa:n
3	gamas	gamawa:səŋ
	gamashi

11.1.5 Reciprocal

The English “each other” is expressed by zləŋsəwà:səŋ (lit. ‘their bodies’) in Za:r:

Grammar

Món jà:ghèn mó:ta dan tà: sa:báy tó zlèhswà:wà:sàη.
Drivers who were used to each other.

11.1.6 The locative resumptive pronoun káy

Káy appears as a resumptive substitute for locative PP . Its allophones are káy/ngáy/gháy. It will appear in a clause where the place circumstantial has been relativized :

Lêp wón dán tó slêgháy myá: sú: m̀è lá:ps hí háηo:.
The place they went to, I didn't want to follow them (there).

or focussed :

Nə ηantsá wón dan cǎ: dzǎk slô:skáy
It's a tree which they sacrificed animals on it.

12. Prepositions

Prepositions can be divided into simple and compound prepositions. Some simple Zar prepositions are borrowed from Hausa (= Ha in the tables).

á, ká, bas	at
dàgà	from (Ha)
dá	at
dán	like
gámé:	with (Ha)
kámár	like (Ha)
mel	near
nó	for, towards
tsàkà:ní	between (Ha)
zúwa	towards (Ha)

ká has three allophones: ká/ghá/ngá. bas is the pre-pronominal form it takes when forming the continuous TAM marker.¹³

Nyê:s má: cibastə sú:ghân.
The girl too she loved him.

Compound prepositions are derived from nouns, with the structure (á)+N+(kə) and have an adverbial counterpart (cf. 14.3).

gà:m	head	(á) gam	on top of
dù:l	heritage	(á) dùl	on top of
gàs	bottom	(á) gàs	under

¹³ Cf. 16.5.

Grammar

dùr	occasion	(á) dùr ghó	because of
		(á) gìp	inside
kên	face	(á) kên	in front of
kâ:r	back	(á) kâ:r	behind
cokn	sky	(á) cókn	on top of
te:	place	(á) te:	by, near
làŋsá	side	(á) láy	near (road, river)
zli:	body	(á) zlèy	in the middle of
		(á) zlèk	deep in the middle of
vi:	mouth	(á) vi:	near (road, river)

13. Adverbs

13.1 Time

Deictic

dangəní	now
dálàŋsán, dálà:sáŋənáŋ	right now

tày dzàngí:, tày vındí:	the day before yesterday
nà:yá:wón	yesterday
yá:wón	today
jǎ:n	tomorrow
dī:ní	the day after tomorrow

jìndí, tǎy jìni	last year
jìŋəŋəŋ	this year
dī:n, dī:n jìni	next year

Others

dada, sádídada	again
ba:ndəŋ	formerly
gàlàs	later
nga:láy	later on
túntún	long ago (Ha)

13.2 Place

Deictic

dū:n, dū:ni	here
dáni, dân, dadân, dadáni	there
dĩ:	over there, far

Others

Grammar

ɓázləŋ	outside
dù:lì	on top
dó:ngáy	far away
gà:mì	above, uphill, up west
gə̀shì	under, downhill
ká:ri	back, last
kéni	in front, first
laysó	near
layshí	aside
mel	near
napti	left
vòy	below
yâ:sl	on the ground
zlarí	across (the river)

13.3 Manner

mari	different
móslâk	quickly
na: tá:dí	jokingly
na: za:ri	properly
nda:râ	well
shantay	truly
tsananin	extreme
tsán, tsə̀ní	like this
wobát	suddenly, unexpectedly
tà:ré	together

13.4 Evidential/ epistemic

sòséy	completely, well (Ha)
jònjòm, jònjòmì	truly
cíp	necessarily
anihí	really
de:dé:	exactly (Ha)
ɗay	too
cík, cikóy	thus
ɗán yâ:lí	thus
gì:ri	properly
káshe káshe	of all sorts (Ha)

13.5 Quantitative/qualitative modulation

áynun	very much, truly (Ha)
bét	all, completely
burúk	all
dàmày	plenty (Ha)

Grammar

debat	all
kadé	only
kam	first
káp, kakáp	every, all
káwây	only
kúrûm	merely
mondá	much, many
náy	very
njwâ:tn, njwátn njwâtn, (ɣa:) njú:, njwá:to	a little
zalla	only, alone

14. Ideophones

A large part of the adverbial function is fulfilled by ideophones, a large class (355 items in the lexicon) that is set apart by its phonological and syntactic properties. Most of the ideophones are associated with one word (verb or adjective) :

Að: coptí: pés.
He washed it clean.

Aó dǐ:mí: péllân.
He jumped up and down like a monkey.

They are frequently reduplicated :

Nə zhèlì njú: njú:.
It's a vivid red.

Að: wusl ga:mí: gwalan gwalán.
He shaved his head clean.

15. External Derivation

15.1 Nominal derivation

A few abstract nouns are derived from other nouns or verbs through a -dǎ suffix and LH tones :

Verb		Abstract noun
kuŋ	get dry	kuŋdǎ	dryness
ʔ¹⁴		dʏa:ghndǎ	dampness
gùŋ	chief	guŋdǎ	chiefdom

¹⁴ The original verb is unknown, but cf. the derived Verbal Adjective dʏá:ki, ‘damp’.

Grammar

Other derivations are less regular :

Verb		Abstract noun
fol	to slough	fóli	snake's slough
kəptə	to itch	kəptə	chaff
kír	to run	kítâr	running
lut	to tear off bark of tree	lût	bark rope
wusl	to shave	wúslka	razor

15.2 Adjectival derivation

Adjectives can be derived from quality verbs through a -ni / -shi suffix.

Verb		Adj
ras	rot	ráshi	rotten
kuy	dry	kuyni (pl. kúyshi)	dry
fupm	be tall	fúpmi (pl. fúpmə, fúpmshi)	long, tall

15.3 Adverbial derivation

Some adverbs are derived from nouns through a -i suffix, or through apotony.

coghy	sky	cóghy	above
dù:l	heritage	dù:lì	on top
gà:m	head	gà:mì	on top, uphill
gəs	bottom	gəshì	under, downhill
kâ:r	back	ká:ri	at the back, behind
kên	face	kéni, kên	in front, forward
lâyşá	side	layshí	aside

Others are derived from verbs through reduplication :

fúpm	be tall, long, far	fúpm fúpm	very far
slyá:	be strong, hard	slyá:-slyâ:	absolutely still

16. Word order Summary

16.1 Non-verbal Simple Clauses

The order is either <S PPrt O> or <NP PPrt>

16.2 Simple verbal clause structure

The general order is <S Aux V O>, where Aux stands for the TAM complex.

Grammar

16.3 NP

The general NP order is Head-Modifier, except for adjectives where there the alternative order Modifier-Head can be used (cf. § 9.6.2).

16.4 VP

The general VP order is VO.

16.5 Word order variation

In the Continuous, with a nominal DO, the usual <S Aux V O> can be changed to <SAuxOV> in certain set phrases:

Mə tushí á mbûghy cíghân.
I met them quarrelling (lit. 'coco-yam eating').

Că: rí:jiya bálghànì = Că: bálghân rí:jiya.
They are digging a well.

This alternative order is found in certain trade names: mur ghá gyà:s nyómgáñì, 'fisherman (lit. a man of fish catching)'. Cf. the alternative word order used for others: mur ghá mbwá:ghân zərí, 'a spinner' (lit. 'a man of spinning thread').

With a pronominal DO, the order <SAuxProV> is compulsory. In this case, the locative component -ká, 'at' of the Aux takes the pre-pronominal form bas:

Nyê:s má: cibastə sú:ghân.
The girl too she loved him.

16.6 The verb 'forget'

The verb 'forget' has the word la:, 'work' as a subject and the experiencer as a direct object. Reference to the present state of affairs is made through the Aorist: La: wò mal Dənda., 'Dənda will forget.' Lă: (<la:-á) máləm (<mâl-əm), 'I forgot'.

1s	lă: máləm	I have forgotten
2s	lă: málghè	you (s) have forgotten
3s	lă: mál̀tè	etc.
1p	lă: mál̀mí
2p	lă: mál̀kí
3p	lă: mál̀shí

Any extra argument (e.g. the thing that has been forgotten) is a comitative (tə X, 'with X'): la: à: maləm tə gì:, 'I have forgotten that'.

This Za:r dictionary and grammar is part of a work that first started in 1991. The general purpose of describing the Za:r language is to help put on the linguistic map a language spoken by about 150 000 speakers in the South of Bauchi State, Nigeria, and mainly in the Bogoro Local Government Area. Although Chadic languages are beginning to be relatively well documented, little was known about the 30 or so « Saya » languages among which Za:r is the largest. Filling the gap with a description as exhaustive as possible will improve the understanding of the evolution of Chadic languages, help reconstruct the history of their speakers and place « Saya » languages in the topology of languages.

Last but not least, the best way to give children access to education is to teach them through the medium of their mother tongue. This implies reading and writing in their own language, which means equipping the language with its own orthography and written grammar. The present work is primarily aimed at Za:r speakers. All of them are bilingual, using Za:r locally and Hausa regionally. English is a prerequisite in the Nigerian system of education. Through the use of Za:r, English and Hausa in the dictionary and collection of texts, this book is meant to develop the readers' competence in the three languages and will help Za:r children become more familiar with English.
